

The Exhibitionist

Marc Almond

You're a fabulous monster
In a sideshow of excess
Something like a bearded lady
In an elegant Dior dress
You've the glamour of a killer
Walking in the shade
With your underage criminal lover
Who has a grin like a razor blade
So stand tall
And raise your hand
If weird is wild
And cute is bland
It's a cabaret
A variety
You're the narcissist
An exhibitionist
You always understood
Ordinary is bad
Strange is good
You're a silver-tongued devil
A chimera and a fool
A deviant and a lipstick thief
The epitome of cool
So stand tall
And raise your hand
If weird is wild
And cute is bland
It's a cabaret
A variety
You're the narcissist
An exhibitionist
You always understood
Ordinary is bad
Strange is good
Stand naked to the public
A nude epiphany
You're inter-sex and outer-sex
Extreme androgyny
So come all you fabulous monsters
And all you glamorous freaks
Total exhibitionism is the Nature of the beast
From the catwalk to the sidewalk
Break free from your leash
We can marvel at your surface
While you hide what's underneath
So stand tall
And raise your hand
If weird is wild
And cute is bland
It's a cabaret
A variety
You're the narcissist
An exhibitionist
You always understood
Ordinary is bad
Strange is good

Let's hear it for the Dog-faced Boy
Three cheers for the Alligator Girl
We can marvel at your surface
While you hide what's underneath
Strange is good