Providence

I talk to you in turbulence That's when I see the light But she has visions on the hillside Then she speaks in tongues all night

You've got such a faithful little servant Why don't you pay her no mind?

She prays for Providence She needs a little more of your attention She waits for Providence Just a little intervention

She was driving out on Highway 1 She felt the presence of something strange She could not tell if it was alien She only knew her life would change

If you were sending down a message Why do you hang her on a line?

She prays for Providence I don't know why you cannot hear her She waits for Providence Are you just waiting to be near her

Are you thinking something And not letting on? Will she understand what you planned Before she's gone?

She prays for Providence She needs a little more of your attention She waits for Providence Just a little intervention
