

Break The Silence

Margaret Becker

I want to break the silence in this house
Where the heart of love once beat so strong
Where saints dressed up in armor ready for the fight
Anxious for His honor, dying for the right (to)

Chorus:

Break the silence
Dare to be exposed
Break the silence
Shatter the common mold
With just one righteous whisper
We'll crack the callous code
Break the silence

We bear the name of martyrs yet still we hide
Behind the frozen mask of intellect
I've stood before you guilty caught up in the quiet
But now let there be a funeral or let there be a riot

Break the silence
Dare to be exposed
Break the silence
Shatter the common mold

I may be only one voice
Calling out your Name
But I love you Jesus
And I'm not ashamed

With just one righteous whisper
We'll crack the callous code
Break the silence
