Long Time Coming

Maria Mena

Your patronizing stare can watch me heal. What I would give for you to tae the wheel It's just been a long time coming The strong resemblance to my mother's womb Is the reason why I will not leave this room It's been a long time coming

The lack of self-esteem has grown on me I'm not as strong as I appear to be It's been a long time coming

My lullaby sounds more like distant screams I wake up sleep deprived after every dream It's been a long time coming

My flesh makes little sense compared to yours I wish my restlessness would open doors It's just been a long time coming
