Marianas Trench

How have you been
Can I come in?
Just came to get my things
And then I guess I'm leaving

If I could say
What you'd like to hear
I'd whisper in your ear, it's only temporary

But I've been taking you for granted
And I thought you'd feel the same as me
It's time that i come clean
But, but for now can we, just both pretend to sleep

Sometimes the one you want is not the one you need
What goes around don't come around
You should know me by now

Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)

I should know you as well

Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)

You should know me by now

Our talk is small
I'm seven inches tall
And you should keep the apartment
So here's my keys
Change all the bills
We're only built to spill and wonder where the heart went

And you've been taking me for granted
And I thought you'd feel the same as me
It's time that i come clean
But, but for now can we, just both pretend to sleep

Sometimes the one you want is not the one you need
What goes around don't come around
You should know me by now

Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)

I should know you as well

Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)
Better than, better than, better than (you should know me)

You should know me by now

I know that I remember you
I think that you remember me too
How can one of us still feel blessed when the other one's lost
I know you got to feel the change
Just gets worse when it stays the same
How can one of us still feel blessed when the other one's so lost

By now

Sometimes the one you want is not the one you need
What goes around don't come around (don't you know me by now)
