

The Wrecking Ball Company

Marissa Nadler

You said you'd need a wrecking ball to break thee
Cement around the heart.
A company of mad machines would take the walls,
Crumble them apart
Ohh the dance? will let you batter? barricades
I've tried to keep you
Banned from the blockades
Wait,
One more day.
Flirty with the failed and fleeting fusion
Body after body to entice.
Till you came into my sad seclusion
I let you waste my vice and be your wife
Ohh the dance? will let you batter? barricades
I've tried to keep you
Banned from the blockades
Wait,
One more day.
