

Before You Fell

Marit Larsen

Every step that you take, is just a step
Only keep moving on, to the next
Every beat of your heart, is holding back
Every piece, every part, is in the past

Where do you turn when all you're running from
Is still beneath your skin
How do you learn to live the life you had
Before you let him in
You can try, you can try, with all your might
But only time will tell
You are to find the one you were, before you fell
Before you fell

Every line that you cross, is just a line
A little more, little less, every time You're trying to find the thing that there isn't any reason for the rise when you fall
It's hard to keep believing when you felt so sure and you were proven so wrong

Where do you turn when all you're running from
Is still beneath your skin
How do you learn to live the life you had
Before you let him in
You can try, you can try, with all your might
But only time will tell
You are to find the one you were, before you fell

Where do you turn when all you're running from
Is still beneath your skin
How do you learn to live the life you had
Before you let him in
Oh, you can try, you can try, with all your might
But only time will tell
You are to find the one you were, before you fell
Before you fell
Before you fell
Before you fell