

I've Never Loved Anyone More

Marty Robbins

Seems that I don't think about you too much
I'm not too sure why I thought of you now
Time has a way of numbin' the touch
But I still recall when you left me just how much
It hurt me to stand there just watchin' you leave
I couldn't believe it was true
After moments we shared and the souls that we bared
I've never loved anyone more

But, like I said, I don't think of you much

There's someone beside me who helps me forget
She's taught me how not to think of you now
When I remember you I don't regret that
We couldn't hold on to the dreams that we share
Dreams that were there to believe in
And, for all of the pain, I would love you again
I've never loved anyone more
And, for all of the pain, I would love you again
I've never loved anyone more
