

The Orphan King

Mary Gauthier

My mama had held me one time then kissed me goodbye
But I still believe in love
She never came back and I don't know why
But I still believe in love
She passed me her crown on her way out of town
But I still believe in love
She left me this kingdom to wear it around
But I still believe in love

Hail the Orphan King!
With the crooked smile and a crackerjack ring
An alley cat court and a song to sing
I still believe in love

Hail, Hail the Orphan King!
With the crooked smile and a crackerjack ring
An alley cat court and a song to sing
I still believe in love

I sleep in parked cars I drink in graveyards
Woke up in the shoolyard face down by a sqand car
I am the King

Hail the orphan king!
With a crooked smile
And a crackerjack ring
It ain't easy being a king
But I still believe
I

Hail the orphan king!
Still
Superhero of suffering
Believe
Like Moses and Batman
