All the Heavy Lifting

Mastodon

Lift you up again, give you to the trees All sound and visions are what they ask of me Let's run fast through the fields, over mountain tops Let's swim through ocean water, and we'll never stop

Just close your eyes And pretend that everything's fine Just close your eyes I'll tell you when

Can you show me where to find the stream I've been told before that the water's clean Will you come with me, two of us can drink Move quick, we've got to hurry There's no time to think

Just close your eyes And pretend that everything's fine Just close your eyes I'll tell you when

We didn't come this far just to turn around We didn't come this far just to run away Just ahead, we will hear the sound The sound that gives us a brand new day

Just close your eyes And pretend that everything's fine Just close your eyes I'll tell you when
