

Ember City

Mastodon

You walk with boundless grace think old thoughts from yesterday all being lost in the fire you wandered and lost the way someone's always left behind when the door of life closes

And you were slipping away what do I say to you and if I want you to stay
what do I say to you

This moment I take for you think of all we didn't do all seeking answers from this hope to come out alive standing still my hands are tied our eyes open up to the sky

And you were slipping away
what do I say to you
and if I want you to stay
what do I say to you