Every bridge that keeps on burning Every leaf that you keep on turning Every road that you find uncertain Pray for you now Baby that you'll figure it out As you keep Chasing the light Remember back when you slept on my floor Blow up mattress down by the door 10 pounds heavier from wasted time We didn't know we were way out of line From the moment that you popped out on the scene Hard to know what you got or you're meant to be Everything that you know goes flying From Jonny O's coach to a gypsy bus island Holding hands with people in life Till they walk away saying no good byes And you keep saying that you're running down a dream But you don't know where it leads As you keep chasing the light Every bridge that keep on burning Every leaf that you keep on turning Every road that you find uncertain Pray for you now Baby that you'll figure it out Every hope and dream that's dying Every time that i see you crying Every step that you keep on climbing Pray for you now Baby that you figure it out As you keep Chasing the light Got the call that you sent out yesterday 40 lines and a fallout holiday On my knees with the weight that was mine Think about you when I'm driving at night Familiar sounds and it takes me right back there Bridge street and the beat in the summer air Was it easier to watch you feet And never deal with the hell that a young boy sees Where liquor runs thicker than blood On your own when push comes to shove Before we had these mouths to feed With innocent dreams... while you keep Chasing the light Every bridge that keep on burning Every leaf that you keep on turning Every road that you find uncertain Pray for you now Baby that you'll figure it out Every hope and dream that's dying Every time that I see you crying Every step that you keep on climbing Pray for you now Baby that you figure it out As you keep

Chasing the light
Remember hearing Dylan's first songs first
Remember writing down a train wreck verse
We were running down Franklin High School lights
Burning alive in a Chevrolet night
Remember driving out to Salton Sea
Dreaming bout all we thought we'd be
One way tickets into southern lights
Slammed the door and said goodbye, goodbye
