

English Town

Matchbox Twenty

Come inside, the air I breathe
While the band still plays
It's the end, of the coldest week
Come down into the sea

'Cause everybody wants to get away sometimes
And everybody needs mistakes

When the sun breaks over the edge
Of an English Town
It pulls me awake, from a bad dream
I don't know why
But I know I'm not, ever going back

In the dark, we can lose our sleep
We can both be kind
'Cause I don't need, the pulling apart of sheets
Just to know, who you are

But everybody wants to get away from something
Everybody lose their way

When the sun breaks over the edge
Of an English Town
It pulls me awake, from a bad dream
I don't know why
But I know I'm not, ever going back

It's a non stop voice
That can lead you out
But cannot, change it

When the sun breaks over the edge
Of an English Town

When the sun breaks over the edge
Of an English Town

When the sun breaks over the edge
Of an English Town
