

Trick Of The Light

Matt Corby

Somewhere out of the ashes,
I fall into you and I know,
Oh, deep down, in the end,
I always knew I'd let you go,

I covered the ocean seeking water for only you, only you,
Drowned and then swam to the shore for only you, only you,

But then I found it was a trick of the light,
Just something that was catching my eye,
But then I found it was a trick of the light,
When your shadow came into my sight,

Somehow, in the end,
I always knew I'd let you go,
I forgot the inside of my soul was paved with gold,
I'm buried alive with my heart by my side,
Only you, only you set fire to my soul, but still left me cold,
Only you, only you,

It was a trick of the light,
Just something that was catching my eye,
I found it was a trick of the light,
Something that was catching my eye,

It was a trick of the light,
Just something that was catching my eye,
I found it was a trick of the light,
When your shadow came into my sight.
