Full July Moon

Tears all over your eyes green From the favorite movie that you and I just seen I finally see just what you mean By the feeling you get when you watch that final scene Eyes all over your dress blue And you don't realize that everyone's gazing right at you I think I might start wandering over your way But you probably won't take notice anyway Smiles all over your lips red And all the things you wish you would have said It's OK 'cause they still can be read In the book that you hide under your bed

Stars all over your hair gold On the roof looking up at the full July moon Is it OK if I come over soon? To stare at the full July moon Is it alright if I come over soon? To gaze at you gazing at the full July moon To smile at you smiling at the full July moon To gaze at you gazing at the full July moon
