Princess

Matt Nathanson

Oh princess You make the party With your hands In your pockets And your innocent eyes And all those things Running around in your head Oh princess you make the party You've been everybody's darling now Everybody's win Bold for the boys who Keep you guessing And all those things Running around... And "all my pauses they're all stops anyway" You would say... And 'all pauses they're all stops anyway And I could really use a win' Oh princess You act like the answer With your hands All over me Promising to be here When the world comes down With all those things Running around... And "all my pauses they're all stops anyway" You would say... And "oh, I could really use the win.. I could really use the win" I don't mind, baby Just spill your secrets on me... I don't mind, baby... Just spill your secrets on me... I don't mind, baby Oh princess. Your ready for greatness All edited and weightless Never more alive And oh dear How they'll whisper your name In time
