

look out
there is danger even in the simple word hello hiding in the reeds you would not believe where darkness goes discovery is the warmth of eyes that leaves us lying in defeat from the tallest trees it's still too hard to see where darkness goes

tell me tell me there's going to be time left tell me i'm stupid and i don't have to worry with the green eyes the green that comes from reflection the blankets that do so well to protect us it's made up the requests have all been effected with distortion and a hiss that's not undetected and the greenness
it comes from a window or a picture or a movie i've never been into flashlights try to pull the color from the corners we don't know when light is not implied there's no way to decide what's right or wrong

tell me there's time left it's not worth it worth it to worry the green eyes the green from reflection the blankets there to protect us it's been made up the requests are effected with distortion and hiss is undetected
comes from a window or a movie i've never been into and you go in go cause you have to with the lights dim credits start rolling the action though it's before us we look sideways and act like it's boring tonight
