

Heartbreakers

Matt Webb

I remember the nights
You remember the mornings
I'm forgetting the fights
You're ignoring the warnings dear

Cause we're all heartbreakers here
And we're not what we appear
There's a crack in the veneer
But here we are here we go

I'm not everything you need
You're not everything to me to me
And I'm not everything you see
And we're everything they everything they need baby

I'm forgetting the nights
You're forgetting the warnings
I'm regretting the fights
You're still there in the mornings dear

Cause we're all heartbreakers here
And we're not what we appear
There's a crack in the veneer
But here we are here we go

I'm not everything you need
You're not everything to me to me
And I'm not everything you see
And we're everything they everything they need baby

So where do we go now
So where do we go now dear
Cause we're all heartbreakers here
And we're not what we appear
There's a crack in the veneer
But here we are here we go

I'm not everything you need
You're not everything to me to me
And I'm not everything you see
And we're everything they everything they need baby
