Lonely Tonight

Matt Wertz

6th and green is a warm place in November When the air is cold and the leaves blow on the ground And I don't think that I can even remember Why it was that i came to this town

Because I just want to be lonely tonight Just me and my maker in this cold moonlight

This is me on the eve of an ending To what I've known's been constant for a year And I'm so scared of this pain that I'll be sending Sometimes I just want to run away in fear

Because I just want to be lonely tonight Just me and my maker in this cold moonlight

No, I haven't heard your voice in two weeks now And anticipation's been wearing me thin And I just can't help but wonderin' baby if somehow We could tear these pages out and begin again

Because I just want to be lonely tonight Just me and my maker in this cold moonlight I just want to be lonely tonight With no one around to see the sight Of me lying here

'Cause this is the hardest thing I've ever done before I said this is the hardest thing I've ever done before And I don't want to be lonely But I won't be lonely tonight Because my maker's holding me
