You say you want something rational You say you need the cold hard facts Do you realize How far you've strayed from truth In your quest for Your rational proof Song for the irrational Song for the irrational Song for the irrational Cause you say you want something rational And you say you need miraculous signs Excuse me if i'm the one who's been mistaken here But your logic seems to be a bit unclear Song for the irrational Song for the irrational Song for the irrational Has what I've shown slipped past your oh so blurried eyes Has my soft touch not calmed those oh so vicious lies Song for the irrational Song for the irrational Song for the irrational