In A World Called Catastrophe

Matthew Good

Here it comes and there it goes Another day of decomposing light In a world called catastrophe, my native tongue is blasphemy So that's the one I'll write And baby can you feel it? Don't it make you want to lay down and close your eyes?

Remember how we started, 'cause since then, I'm a waste Since then I'm a fool Since then I'm a dog In a world called catastrophe Since then I'm a waste

Here it comes and there it goes Another day of getting up to fight In a world called catastrophe, my native tongue is blasphemy So it's the one I'll write And baby can you hear it? Don't it make you want to wake up and open your eyes?

Remember how we started, 'cause since then, I'm a waste Since then I'm a fool Since then I'm a dog In a world called catastrophe Since then I'm a waste
