

Future Shock

Matthew Sweet

I never wanted to be more than passing time
And you would rather disappear than cross the line
And I'm only waiting for you 'cause I can't decide
If you're only saying one thing with something else inside

From the start there is a coldness in my eye
Until the moment that I speak you won't know why
But you never ask the question, you just close the door
And you never get the answer I was waiting for

Maybe that's someplace time won't take you
Looking around I could replace you
Wanting for something you have never had

But you never ask the question, you just close the door
And you never get the answer I was waiting for

Maybe that's someplace time won't take you
Looking around I could replace you
Wanting for something you have never had

Never had
Never had
