it was the signs
on your face
that i never could see
its was the fact
i forgot
some kind of anniversary

At the phone
you would wait
but i never would call
it's the thought that never counted
cause there's no thought at all

Distress codes sent for a rescue to relieve me of the boredom that i'm feeling with you in a daydream i'd compute the first day we would meet and simply press delete

Because i just don't care so give it a break i just don't care so i made a mistake i just don't care and there's one thing to do it's ture i need to get ride of you no matter what i try i never get through my random acts od kindness you'd just misconstrue

i guess it comes down to a lack of trust
a heart that used to work has since been covered with dust in the shadows of the year you know i never could tell if i had feelings for you or i was under some spell and now the only kiss i can justify is a kiss goodbye because i just don't care so give it a break

i just don't care
so i made a mistake
i just don't care

and there's one thing to do

it's ture
i need to get rid of you