

The Silence

Mayday Parade

Torn in two she lies awake
The moon lights up the room like day
Another night she spends alone
Without his touch her skin so cold

The blood that's running through her veins
With every beat there's no escape
Lost in everything she trusts
Still can't seem to get enough

Even though the world she loved
It won't ever be the way it was
And his heart of stone left her's breaking.

Every night she cries
And dies a little more each time
Say you love me
Nothing left inside
Say you love me
And the silence will set her free

Memories they take her back
Every moment fades to black
Every kiss and every taste
She wishes time would ease the pain

Even though the world she loved
It won't ever be the way it was
And her heart is weak her hands are shaking

Every night she cries
And dies a little more each time
Say you love me
Nothing left inside
Say you love me
And the silence will set her free

And every night she cries

I don't know if I'll ever make this right
Cause I am just so broken by the bitterness of loneliness
And I'm so scared of this
I don't know if I'll ever make this right
Cause I am just so broken by the bitterness of loneliness
And I'm so scared

Even though the world she loved
It won't ever be the way it was
And his heart of stone left her's breaking

Every night she cries
And dies a little more each time
Say you love me
Nothing left inside
Say you love me
And the silence will set her free

Every night she cries (2x)
And the silence will set her free