

Like You Hurt Me

Medina

The scent of your perfume, is still in the air it feels like it just pass through.
Pictures of the walls,
still hanging here I can't get them down at all.
I'm sleeping on the floor,
the bed is full of memories I just wanna forget,
no one called,
you were the only one who understood me.
Baby it's you,
baby it's you,
baby it's you,
baby it's you.
You cut my heart out.

Every time I hear your name,
I'm reminded how you turn and you just walked away.
And every time I see your face,
I just feel like going drinking all this pain away.
And every time you put your hands on her,
I think of ways to make you cry and make you hurt like your hurt, like your hurt me, like you hurt me.

I don't feel like driving, last time we did it on the back seat of our ride.
I can't deny it,
you were the only one who ever knew how to give it to me,
baby it's you,
baby it's you,
who cut my heart out.

Every time I hear your name,
I'm reminded how you turn and you just walked away.
And every time I see your face,
I just feel like going drinking all this pain away.
And every time you put your hands on her,
I think of ways to make you cry and make you hurt,
like your hurt me, like your hurt me, like you hurt me.

I would never take you back,
but I will never,
never ever, ever love like that.
I'm missing everything we had,
but I will never, never, never, never take your crack.

Every time I hear your name,
I'm reminded how you turn and you just walked away.
And every time I see your face,
I just feel like going drinking all this pain away.
And every time you put your hands on her,
I think of ways to make you cry and make you hurt,
like your hurt me, like your hurt me, like you hurt me.
