

Goodbye With Hello

Megan & Liz

thursday night and i'm waiting for that call it's already too late and i probably won't sleep at all we've been drifting apart for some time but the scariest thing is how i want you stay and you're walking away my phone rings

my heart stops

when you said hello all i heard was goodbye when you said you still loved me all i heard were lies when you said it was over i knew you were too afraid to show that you were saying goodbye with hello

i said i wasn't crying but i was fighting back tears inside it was like breaking up the first time, revealing my fears we said it was mutual and everything was fine but this is where i lied

i hang up the tears come

when you said hello all i heard was goodbye
when you said you still loved me all i heard were lies
when you said it was over i knew you were too afraid to show
that you were saying goodbye with hello

i wish i could take back everything i said in that call what i'd really tell you is how i really cared not that i didn't care at all you spoke the words i'm not deeply in love with you anymore and to this day, those words burn into my core

when you said hello all i heard was goodbye
when you said you still loved me all i heard were lies
when you said it was over i knew you were too afraid to show
that you were saying goodbye with hello