

Back to My Home

Meghan Trainor

Sunlight, moonlight
It's always open
If a time that passes by
Forward and forward
I'll keep on moving
To give me that reason why

And I won't forget
No, I'll keep going back
Back to my home

For all of these years
I've been waiting to leave
Where would I call my home?
And without your comfort
Without your love
How could I stand all alone

And I won't forget
No, I'll keep going back
But for now
I'll be gone again

I promise you, I promise you
That there
There will be no chafe again
I give you my word
That I'll always make it back

Home, back to my home
My home
But it's not, I can't leave him
For long
Wasting my time
Just feel so wrong

And I open my eyes
So I've realizes
That life's just not a song

But for now
I'll be gone again
I promise you

For now
I'll be gone again
I promise you, I promise you

That there
There will be no chafe again
I give him my word
That I'll always make it back
Back to my home
