I'm a grown up now
whatever it means the older I get the more it seems I've given up to be afraid
It was a matter of time
just a Milky Way

Not a crisis more like a transformation another stop on a higher station and what's the most important part I'm standin' up for what I like

Awakening
from within a dream
shifting moments
endless stream
receiving and giving golden beam
I'm awake in the truth
I am a dream

I'm a woman now and by all means the stronger I get the less I seem to be a judge, to fool myself to live in the now it's all it means

Stick

Like popcorn every cell is awake 'what used to be real was just a fake
