The Moment You Believe

Melanie C

Time to face what you are hiding from Don't have to do this on your own Together we are strong We don't need anyone No matter what they say the time has come I'm ready now to start a new beginning With all our hopes and all our dreams And I know the stars will shine for you and for me From the moment you believe I know they think that I'm no good for you But we both know that they're wrong Together we can fight Show everyone we're right I don't care what they say our time has come I'm ready now to start a new beginning... When you believe there's nothing you can't overcome When you believe the earth is brighter than the sun I believe I'm ready now to start a new beginning...