

I Won't Be Alone Tonight

Melissa Etheridge

Gonna put my boots on, pull back my hair
There's a heartbreak in the night but I don't care
Got to find me an angel one that's just a little mean
In cheap sunglasses and low-rise jeans

I've had enough of a stuffed up wall
I'm breaking out tonight that's all Don't owe nobody money as far as I can recall

I, I won't be alone tonight, the darkness will end and I won't be alone, won't be alone tonight
There's a billion stars out in an endless sky and I won't be al one, won't be alone
Won't be alone tonight

Talking to the mirror working up my nerve
I say you have much more than this than you deserve Lift up my head, I gotta take a little chance
I'm gonna meet my feet, my feet can dance

I've had enough of a one way screen
I was and I was a cheap caffeine Get me a clean shirt find me the in between

Oh, I won't be alone tonight, the darkness will end and I won't
be alone, won't be alone tonight
There's a billion stars out in an endless sky and I won't be al
one, won't be alone
Won't be alone tonight

I make my bed and that's my choice
I just wanna hear another human voice
Screaming pillows and secret tears
Every single night for a hundred million years

But not tonight

I, I won't be alone tonight, the darkness will end and I won't
be alone, won't be alone tonight
There's a billion stars out in an endless sky and I won't be al
one, won't be alone
Won't be alone tonight
