

Will You Still Love Me

Melissa Etheridge

The sky is too high to paint tonight
The wind is too strong to hold on to
I climb on your roof and call out your name
Somebody stole my silver shoes

Now the show must go on, and on and on and on

Will you still love me anyway
Will you still need me when you're victorious
Will you still want me when I've nothing to say
Will you still love me anyway

I am in the big top on the live wire
Under the gun, over the fire
I'd swim up so high, like a swan I would dive
Someone took my net, and buried me alive

And the crowd screams for more - Encore, Encore

Will you still love me anyway
Will you still need me when you're victorious
Will you still want me when I've nothing to say
Will you still love me anyway

Oh I, I need to know why
Doesn't love die
What becomes of life
When does it begin
And tell me how's it end
When your carved into my carved into my carved into my skin

Will you still love me anyway

Will you still love me anyway
Will you still need me when you're victorious
Will you still want me when I've nothing to say
Will you still love me anyway