Mine Is No Disgrace

How does it feel To take the blame How does it feel To be behind the drain

Because you take what you can get and ask for more You never get what you deserve And that's the score Remember that the life you save may be your own But when you're bankrupt you wont get another loan

I hope that you'll accept my sympathy But understand I gotta think its better him than me It's better him than me A chain is just as strong as it's weakest link When you endure the strain it's always later than you think It's later than you think

Resign to a life of chronic cellibacy With fond memories and cheap pornography God forbid I ever wanted intimacy No more, that out out of the door God forbid I should feel I know that ain't real

But now I feel like I could rape a nun And it's always the first kiss that gets you drunk That gets you drunk So I keep a habit on her face While I listen to that Yes song Yours is no disgrace Mine is no disgrace No, no disgrace

Ah, ah, ah, ah, ah

How does it feel To fade away How does it feel To be beneath the train

The life disguised behind the backward mask A little dignity is all I ask Many people cross the beach and leave no trace Well I'm hoping for my footprints to remain I know that ain't real

But now I feel like I could rape a nun And it's always the first kiss that gets you drunk That gets you drunk So I keep a habit on her face While I listen to that Yes song Yours is no disgrace Mine is no disgrace No, no disgrace
