Way of the World

Melvins

There are eyes that cannot see And fingers that cannot touch

That's the way of the world

There are dreams left empty and blank And legs that have ceased to walk

That's the way of the world

There are kisses undelivered And Sighs and moans unuttered

That's the way of the world

There are hearts no longer beating And there's entrails spilled on the floor

That's the way of the world

There are eyes that cannot see And fingers that cannot touch

That's the way of the world

There are hearts no longer beating And there's entrails spilled on the floor

That's the way of the world
