On this cold and windy Sunday I'm sitting here alone... It's Autumn I'm looking at a yellow picture You have been gone forever Oh it's so very hard, Growing old on your own, alone I'm trying to remember... the days... When we were young Since forever, I still remember your ways Since forever, I still remember I have been reading your letter, Over and over again I can't believe you're gonna be here today I can't believe... This is Sunday How nice of you to come, It's been so way too long Let me get you another glass of wine To keep our tingues in time Since forever, I still remember your ways Since forever, I still remember So many things have never been told And now the both of us are way too old Since forever, I still remember your ways Since forever, I still remember Like the light of the sun You used to brightened my day But darkness ha taken your place And I can no longer keep it away Since forever, I still remember your ways Since forever, I still remember I ask you for one last time No there won't be any wine Just one more time So you can put flowers on my grave And then leave again... Since forever
