

Loneliness Is Eating Me Alive

Merle Haggard

There hasn't been one bit of laughter in this house so long Just the howlin' of the wind asking why I know this house ain't growing but it seems bigger since you'r e gone
And the loneliness is eatin' me alive.

If there's any forgiveness in ye wrap it up and come on home Yeah I may not change completely oh but I'll try And honey you have to hurry or there'd be no reason to come hom e Cause this loneliness is eatin' me alive.

The bigger the house the harder the tear falls I found it out s ince your goodbye
And honey you'll have to hurry or there'll be no reason to come home Cause this loneliness is eatin' me alive yeah this loneliness i s eatin' me alive.
