

Power Of One

Merril Bainbridge

He opens up my mind
In a way nobody else has ever
He opens up my dreams
And now the life I see is so much brighter

What makes it so one can touch another
In such a way
We underestimate the beauty and the power
Of one, of one

He opens up my fears
To degrees I never thought existed
And he opens up my heart
To relieve the many pains afflicted

What makes it so one can touch another
In such a way
We underestimate the beauty and the power
Of one

We weren't meant to be alone
Though alone this life we leave and enter
In existence of the flesh
We all need to feel a hand that's tender

One hand one heart can affect another
In such a way
We underestimate the beauty and the power
Of one, of one, of one
