

You're feeling far too low
It's all the thinking and the pressures of home
You could work it out just fine
If you could only get away some time
But you can't
You know that you can't

You've got them in your face
You've got the whole of humanity on your case
You may be far too old to cry
But you're certainly a candidate to want to die for your sin
No, you're just another crisis
It's just another test of how bad your life is
They can't accept the moods
When all the other people just like you
Are left to be

You only wanted someone close
To tell them all things you want the most
The disappointments of the secret things
To live your life like a magazine
But you can't
No, you're just another crisis
It's just another test of how bad your life is
No, no, no, you're just another crisis
It's just another test of how bad your life is

You're feeling far too low
It's all the thinking and the pressures of home
You could work it out just fine
If you could only get away some time
But you can't
No, you're just another crisis
It's just another test of how bad your life is
It's just another crisis
No, no, no, you're just another crisis
It's just another test of how bad your life is
You're just another crisis
