Coffee Break

Close the door when they come in They can feel their whole world spin Smoking plastic shards They'll never be scared of me (I won't drown) And when they change themselves They are never afraid of me

Summer's out for you There's no time for you

It is not what it seems You're awake in your dreams With lithium you'll never be sad again But you can't sleep with her

It's not by choice, is it? I hope you never come back There's someone else in here Please tell me why Please tell me when
