

Invisible Tattoo

Michael Bolton

There's a delicate rose, in bloom;
There's a heart with an arrow, rolling through
There's a lasting impression of you all over me;
There's an angel of mercy on, high
There's an eagle with wings to fly
There's a tangible memory of you and I all over me.

There's an invisible tattoo, invisible
There's an invisible tattoo, a lasting impression of you all over me.

There's a love letter left behind;
There's a promise that lingers over time
The indelible desire you quietly drew all over me.

There's an invisible tattoo, invisible
There's an invisible tattoo, a lasting impression of you all over me.

And when I close my eyes, all the colours arise Luminous again,
vivid on my skin.

There's an invisible tattoo, invisible
There's an invisible tattoo, a lasting impression of you all over me.

There's an invisible tattoo, invisible
There's an invisible tattoo, all over me.

There's an invisible tattoo, invisible
There's an invisible tattoo, all over me.

There's an invisible tattoo, invisible
There's an invisible tattoo, all over me