

All Those Words

Michael Trent

I thought that this might be a good way to start
Though we've never spoken you've broken my heart
I love you like gun powder loves a good spark
I walk by your house almost every day
I shoveled your sidewalk while you were away
I'd talk to you if I knew what I would say

I'll take my time
Patiently holding the line
And on the perfect night
All those words suddenly
Flow like water out of me
Fill your ears
And lovingly, flood your heart

I watched as your love looked over your charms
I washed as he promised to never do harm
Then I watched as he drew himself out of your arms
I sent you a letter anonymously
Whispered to your bartender that one's on me
When you slipped in the subway
I held onto your sleeve

There's nothin that I'd rather do
Cuz, for me it has always been you
So when I get the cue
All those words suddenly
Flow like water out of me
Fill your ears and lovingly
Flood your heart

Take my time
Patiently holding the line
But when I make you mine
All those words suddenly
Flow like water, out of me
Fill your ears and lovingly
Flood your heart

All those words suddenly
Flow like water out of me
Fill your ears and lovingly
Flood your heart
