I'm sinking down, 20,000 leagues To save me now, you need a submarine Cause my heart is lost at sea To save me now, you need a submarine

I feel like there's no way to win
Running in circles and I'm searching to know where it ends
Or where it begins, over and over and over again
I keep believing your excuse
Drowning in your lies and I can't breathe a word of truth
And the proof is lack, and the room is black
One hit of you and we can go to the moon and back
I'm a lunatic, my life's in pieces and I need you to glue it ba ck
But you're used to that Cause you do this to everyone you've ever been with It's like you're my parole, the way you're finishing my sentenc

And I'm in this hole and it's endless I'm broken and I'm hoping you can pick up all the remnants and mend it

You think you're the king of your own jungle But you're lying to yourself me, you're to my health

See, I hate you when you're gone but I love you when you're her e

You're ruining my life, but I forgot if I should care Cause even though you're wrong for me I love that you belong to me

And honestly when you're gone, where you are is where I wanna b

And I should know better, enough is enough Killing those who love me for the one that I love But there's really no point in running away to get lost again And I really don't care, I could die right here where the botto m is

I'm done with this

Couldn't fight it, hit me like a perfect storm