

Walked outside today
To see if the world ran on time
Walked to Cedars Bay
To find out if love was a lie
Said I wanted you, needed you
Can't live without you tonight
And the hardest thing
Is though it is wrong it feels right

And your heart ran empty
But my love was full
And the time spent waiting
Was no time at all

So come here
I find the answer is really a question of timing
Begging before you I barely see over your shoes
You are the ocean I'm just a vessel you're sinking
And I find the reason I stayed here all season is wrong

Now the sun is gone
But some days the world lets it shine
But for most the time
It's always as dark as my mind
Said I wanted you, needed you
Can't live without you tonight
And the hardest thing
Is though it is wrong it feels right

And your heart ran empty
But my love was full
And the time spent waiting
Was no time at all

So come here
I find the answer is really a question of timing
Begging before you I barely see over your shoes
You are the ocean I'm just a vessel you're sinking
And I find the reason I stayed here all season is wrong
