

We must be shrewed or stupid
One of the two The stakes are too important, for us to lose but he would've broke your heart and she would've let me down.....
They would always leave early in the morning a final kiss or final warning

just as we're friends today, tomorrow we'll be lovers never to be the same no more, no more we've crossed the Rubicon and we can't turn our heels so it's onto the bridge and we'll have to teach ourselves
my love

and i'll be tellin' tales if i claim to be sure that this would last forever look at the way it has gone before but he who would've broke your heart and she would have taken me for granted they would always leave early in the morning no final kiss, no final warning

just as we're friends today,
tomorrow we'll be lovers
never to be the same no more, no more
weve crossed the Rubicon and we can't turn our heels
so it's onto the bridge and we'll have to teach ourselves
my love