

Rainbow Woman

Miles Kane

I saw her reflection in the shadow of the sun
Listening to the cadence of a dying drummers' drum

She knew I was coming nearer, she said no but I did not hear her
Rainbow woman, rainbow, rainbow woman, woman
Rainbow woman

When I heard her laughter I was more than some surprised
In her smile was sadness there was laughter in her eyes

Self respect is absent in a lonely man's mirage
Love is sometimes given in a salty tear corsage

Make the Gods that made her claim her, she comes and goes and so I named her

Rainbow woman, rainbow, rainbow woman, woman
Rainbow woman
