

The Loneliest Girl in the World

Milow

The loneliest girl in the world has a window
She watches herself in the clouds and the stars
But when she grows up she will never be lonely again
The loneliest girl in the world is falling
She's dreaming a life with the boy next door
He promises her she will never be lonely again
She tries so hard to believe it
It's too soon to understand
Where we leave the beginning is where we'll end up in the end

The loneliest girl keeps her records playing
She fills up her house and her days and her mind
She'll tell you she knows how to never be lonely again
She tries so hard to believe it
It's too soon to understand
Where we leave the beginning is where we'll end up in the end

The loneliest girl in the world has a window
She watches herself sees her life passing by
She's traveled this far only to be lonely again
She tried so hard to believe it
It's too late to understand
Where we leave the beginning is where we'll end up in the end
Where we leave the beginning is where we'll end up in the end
