

We Must Be Crazy

Milow

Tonight the stars I look upon
Will shine on after I am gone
Where will I be this time
Tomorrow when I see them shine
I walk along the avenue
Where everything I though I knew
Has left me without a clue
Empty streets and empty stores
Windows covered up the boards
Graffiti written on the doors

We must be crazy
But you're so beautiful
Life is hasty
Just like me and you
All these strangers
Working in the graveyards
Lovers and haters
We must be crazy

Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind
Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind

Tonight the stars I walk below
The same, the birds so long ago
In a nature stolen virtues
All your dreams deserting you

It's a long life to live
And I'm learning how to forgive
Myself for all the things I did

We are ordinarily beautiful
Open to be ridiculed
Common as the grass that grows so slow

We must be crazy
But you're so beautiful
Life is hasty
Just like me and you
All these strangers
Working in the graveyards
Lovers and haters
We must be crazy

Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind
Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind

Whatever changes come my way
Whatever changes come my way

We must be crazy

Live is hasty
Just like me and you
All these strangers
Lovers and haters
We must be crazy

Out here in the night
Show me the light before I go blind
Out here in the night
