

Long Island

Mindy Smith

Oh my soul craves to go home to long island shores again take me back to old north Walk?
to breathe in the harbor wind.

I'll be leaving Tennessee on the first plane
Sunday gone to my family reunion
There my father preached at the church
On the corner of Old Nickels Road
He raised four children in a green house
We are all well and now we are all grown

There my mother Sharron lies deep in the earth of the long island shores
I will visit her grave and plant yellow roses at her stone

I'll be leaving Tennessee on the first plane
Sunday gone to my family reunion
I'll be leaving
Gone to my family reunion
Oh my soul craves to go home.
