

Broken China

Minus the Bear

Our last kiss
held no hint
just smoke and a little touch of mint and now you're walking out the door

No broken china
on the floor by the couch no hollow tipped attack to put you on the out you're simply leaving me not dressed to be alone we brought forth see this coming on

Roll out your magic ride
for the next man
put on a pretty face you'll always win

I see you
up on Broadway
arm and arm with some bright young man you keep walking in a different direction and I would wish you well if I had the chance

Roll out your magic ride
for the next man
put on a pretty face
you'll always win

Now do we find
back on the starting line
for once in my life
I feel that I would be rested

I dial you in on the telephone just to hear that ring beat put on my coat
and walk out that door went down a different street

Roll out your magic ride
for the next man
put on a pretty face
you'll always win

Roll out your magic ride
for the next man
put on a pretty face
you'll always win

Now do we find
back on the starting line
for once in my life
I feel that I would be rested