

There's a Wall

Miranda Lambert

I'd run away but I can't escape the power of your pride
Your eyes are cold like an empty soul and I'm burnin' up inside
There's nothin' wrong with letting go and you're still diggin' in
We're racin' to the bottom and I can't find the end

And there's a wall standin' here between us
And that's all that's keepin' you from freedom
And I keep pushin' harder and you keep gettin' stronger
You won't break cause you're afraid you'll fall
And there's a wall

You love me when you want to and you find reasons to fight
Another lame excuse to keep the devil on your side
Tryin' hard to hide those scars that I've already seen Your beat up heart's not the only thing that's keepin' you from me

And there's a wall standin' here between us
And that's all that's keepin' you from freedom
And I keep pushin' harder and you keep gettin' stronger
You won't break cause you're afraid you'll fall
And there's a wall

Pain has made you weak and hard
I will never be as strong
As strong...

As this wall standin' here between us
And that's all that's keepin' you from freedom
And I keep pushin' harder and you keep gettin' stronger
You won't break cause you're afraid you'll fall
And there's a wall
