

Virginia Bluebell

Miranda Lambert

Carrying the weight on the end of a limb your just waitin for somebody to pick you up again shaded by a tree, can't live up to a rose all you ever wanted was a silent place to grow

Pretty little thing
sometimes you gotta look up and let the world see all the beauty that your made of cause the way you hang you head nobody can tell
your my Virginia bluebell
my Viginia bluebell

Even through the snow a flower can bloom you just need a little push spring is coming soon umbrella in the rain they'll roll off your back better watcha can realize what you have

Put a little light in the darkest places put a little smile on the saddest faces
